Hybrid Lecture Series 2026 / 27

Linguistics reimaged: applying digital tools in language research

WHEN

7 Oct 2026 – 13 Jan 2027

12 weekly sessions

TIME

Wednesdays 14:00–16:00

Malta / CET · 13:00 in Dublin

FORMAT

Hybrid — on site & online

Malta · Dublin · Passau

Twelve hands-on sessions on how computational and machine-learning methods are reshaping language research — taught jointly by three European universities and open to students at all three partner institutions. Sessions are recorded and made openly available.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

01 Data Creation

Handwritten text recognition, automatic speech recognition, building your own corpora

02 Data Curation

Standards, workflows and tools for clean, reusable, FAIR language data

03 Contextualisation

Quantitative and computational analysis — from models to interpretation

04 Your Own Project

Supervised project work, developed towards the student conference

IT ENDS IN MALTA

Student Conference · 18 March 2027

Present your project at the University of Malta alongside students from Dublin and Passau, and publish it in the open-access conference proceedings.
